2007's best industry leaders and innovators

New tank style corners market

Celebrations are continuing at Ascent Building Solutions after their back-to-back win at the recent Sunshine Coast Business Excellence Awards, where they won the prestigious 2007 Entrepreneurial Business of the Year – the largest category of the awards with 40 finalists.

This follows their success in last year's awards when the innovative company won the 2006 Building and Construction Category – a remarkable outcome, considering that company directors Jared Hinkley and Terry Styles only started the company in April 2005.

In the few short years of operation, the company has enjoyed tremendous success and at their Beerwah factory they employ 12 staff members and between five to seven permanent roof installation teams.

Spanning residential, commercial, industrial and government markets, the progressive roofing company specialises in supplying and installing metal roofing products and replacing asbestos roofing. However this year's win was in recognition of Ascent's new rainwater tank division aptly named Rainwater House.

After 18 months of rigorous research and development, they have released a new range of metal rainwater tanks, which are completely revolutionising the industry.

With the housing affordability crisis worsening and land in housing estates getting smaller, rainwater storage on residential blocks is becoming increasingly difficult. Whether it is inadequate access or a narrow storage area, customers were restricted to only a few styles of tanks. The newly released and award-winning Rainpod Range supersedes the old oblong tanks, thanks to modern advancements in technology and a touch of ingenuity.

Terry said the new Rainpod range mimics the inherent strength of a round tank, but still offers the flexibility of a narrow under eave tank.

Putting their clients first

Boutique recruitment consultancy New Staff Solutions is positioning itself as the Coast's first choice for recruitment with industry accolades and rocketing growth. Their award in the Professional Services (Micro) category at the Sunshine Coast Excellence in Business Awards 2007 follows their impressive win in 2006 as the Coast's Emerging Business of the Year.

Company owner Peta Simpson led the whole of her team on to the stage to receive the award.

"I am so pleased for myself and the team," she said.

"Our strength is that we remain true to our core values of putting our clients and candidates first and providing them with excellent customer service.

"We are a young company and our reputation and business is going from strength to strength."

Peta said the company was proud to be part of the thriving business community on the Coast.

"I know by sourcing the best new staff we play a ma-major role in helping other companies to thrive."

Peta launched New Staff Solutions in 2004 and looks forward to celebrating the company's fourth birthday in April next year.

Expansion is on its way with a growing team of recruitment specialists, a marketing specialist on board, and plans for brand new offices in 2008.
